 Oh, marry me, tee-hee.

He called that evening determined to propose.
 "Maribel," he began after they had been warming the soft for exactly an hour and twenty-two minutes—"Maribel—that is to say, Miss Skiggins—no, Maribel—I—you—there has been a change in the weather, wouldn't it—I mean hasn't there?"

"Yes, there hasn't," she replied sweetly. (She looked awful fetching that night with her Nile green minaret gown with an overstruc-ture of braided raisins.) "But you were saying something, Oscar—Mr. Yaphin."

"No, Oscar—call me Oscar!" he cried.

"Oscar," she breathed.

"I was saying," he said, "I was saying, Miss Skiggins—Maribel—er—Miss Skiggins—er—"

"You may call me darling if you like," she whispered. "You were saying—"

"Darling!" he cried. "Darling Maribel! I was saying, darling, darling, I was saying will you, that is—that is, I was saying—"

"Did I hear the word 'wife' mentioned?" she asked gently.

"Yes," he cried. "Will you be mine?"

With a glad, surprised cry she heaved herself at him.

"My Oscar!" she exclaimed.
 "How masterfully, how manfully you proposed!"

 In years past heavy rains have brought floods down this arroyo which have done serious damage to property. The dam now being built, it is believed will avert any future damage.

SALARY QUESTION PUT OVER FOR TWO WEEKS

Council Goes into Lengthy Discussion of Proposed Pay for Mayor in Executive Session Last Night.

SEVERAL MEMBERS SAID
 TO BE AGAINST PAY

As appears to have become its fixed custom when matters that are considered of especial importance to the public are concerned, the city council went into executive session in the course of its meeting last night, and remained therein for about an hour.
 The exact reason for the transaction of city business behind closed doors has never been made plain, and no explanation was vouchsafed by any of the aldermen or city officials last night. It is understood, however, that a number of matters were under consideration which are of prime importance to the people, among them that of a salary for the future mayors of Albuquerque, and the question of pay or no pay for members of the council.

It was learned that some members of the council opposed a salary for the mayor, on the ground that the public was against pay for the executive, and that other members proposed to leave the question open until after the coming city election, and while details of the discussion are not known, it was stated last night by several members of the council, that the question had been left pending until the next regular meeting of the council which will be the first Monday in March, in order to allow the members time to further sound the feeling of their constituents. One member of the council, it is said, made the assertion that after a tour of every business house in the city he had failed to find but one man who favored a salary for the mayor. Another, it is reported, indicated that he thought it would be wise to leave the salary question until after the coming election. These are merely rumors which drifted from members following the proceedings behind closed doors and the only definite information that could be obtained was that the question had been postponed.
